300	A barn find MG YB four-door saloon motor car finished in red and black, (Originally was probably finished in Dark green and Black). Registration No. LWW 239, believed to have been manufactured on the 26th August 1952, Car No. YB/0675, Engine No. XPAG/SC2/17569, Scuttle No. 478 SRZ 12592 - 125 MG 6335. The YB 1,250 cc overhead-valve petrol-engined cars had a four-speed gearbox with synchromesh on the three upper gears. These cars, the development of which received the talented input of Alec Issigonis (famous for the designing of the Mini) were quite revolutionary at the time in having rack & pinion steering and independent front suspension with wishbones and coil springs, the independent set-up having been developed from the suspension of pre-war MG racing cars. The YB was considered an improvement on the Y(A) in having the handling sharpened-up by the installing of a front anti-roll bar and up-rated shock absorbers, the front drum brakes being of the twin leading shoe type. Inbuilt hydraulic jacking was also novel in the form the "Smiths Jackall" system, which could be selected to lift the front, the rear or indeed all four wheels off the ground. As can be seen, the car has been partially stripped for renovation and the many components were found in the passenger compartment and in the boot. There is no registration document currently to hand and the registration number is not presently recognised at the DVLA, but it may well be	feasible to retain the number with the assistance of the excellent enthusiasts' clubs. Here is an ideal winter project that should prove most rewarding in returning to the road one of the only 1,301 of these sporty-handling cars that was produced, very few of which remain. The car's serial numbers are recorded on the International Y Type Register, but other relevant details are absent including its country of location, colour, ownership, condition, etc., Images of the various components present will be added shortly. Present are new valves, duplex cam chain, shell bearings (big-ends and mains), a set of new +60 pistons, the original pistons appear to be a loose fit and some machining of the engine may well have been carried out. The bores and crankshaft have been protected from rust damage with a good coating of grease. As with all motor vehicles sold through our auctions, this vehicle is sold in its current condition and all vehicles should be inspected in person prior to bidding. N.B.
